

Milan Stojanovic, University of Belgrade, Department of Food Technology, Serbia
PhD research

Hosting University: University of Milan, Department of Food Environmental and Nutritional Sciences

I strongly believe that science (and education at all) is a global thing. We should work and grow together, share experiences and good practices, but act locally. I wanted to connect with the world and spread my visions. That's why I applied within SIGMA Agile. At the host university I enjoyed most working with other students on overcoming mutual issues. Thanks to this mobility I published a research paper as a collaboration between my host and home university. It opened me a door for the international scientific contribution and let me in. This mobility helped me to improve my English and also helped me to become capable and ready for future international projects. I made friends from all over the world what is, in my opinion, of priceless value. I can proudly say that this mobility is definitely best period in my life. Thank you and best regards from Belgrade!

